The bill ends with a provision that,

Secretary Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, has submitted to Congress, through the Secretary of the appropriation of $135,000 in order that increased exportations of pork may be made.

The Secretary says that owing to the high price of pork abroad there had been such a demand for American pork that there were not inspectors or microscopists enough in the service to make it possible for extensive shipments to be made. He believes, howshippers had offered to pay the exlaw this could not be permitted.

Looks like China might be going to have some Civil Service, too. Information comes from Peking that the Chinese Government is considering an important change in the conduct of its diplomatic and consular service. Instead of the terms of the diplomatic and consular agents being temporary, as is now the case, it is proposed to make their terms of duty permanent, and permit the diplomats and consuls to remain at their posts as long as their conduct of affairs is satisfactory.

A mighty swell crowd of Chinese, big Mandarins or something of that kind, is now on its way to the United States to study us, our customs, and our laws with an eye to introducing in China such as seem to this "Lord High Commission" advisable. When men only do their duty in the hour of need there is no sense in going into panegyries of praise and adulation, for that is exactly what all of us are expected to do, and when we do not do it we are fit subjects for the utmost condemnation. But when men go far beyond their duty, and, forgetful of self, bravely incur needless danger and accrued pain for themselves in their splendid self-abnegation, then in- bers of the Cabinet and told them to deed do we all sing paeans of praise and keep their mouths shu-um-well, yes it is worthily bestowed.
